Finding of Parts of Woman's Legs Uncovers Murders

BULLETIN
New York, July 11—(AP)—While police were trying to unravel the mystery of the axe murder of two women, the decomposed head of a woman was found today in Brooklyn, which police thought might possibly be that of Evelyn Martino, aged 20, friend of the women, and missing since June 30.
The young woman, the police were told, left her home with Mrs. Alfred Bennett, to visit at the rooming house of Miss Sarah Brownell and has not been seen since.
Mrs. Bennett, the mother of four children, who sold the lease on the rooming house to the elderly Miss Brownell, was murdered and dismembered. Police believe she was killed when she encountered the murderer while attempting to dispose of parts of the elder woman's body.

New York, July 11—(AP)—A trail that started Saturday with the finding in Battery Park of a woman's legs had led today to a double murder mystery an arrest of a man suspect.

By bit, parts of the torso of the slain woman came to light, the trail finally leading to a Brooklyn house, where the dismembered body of another woman was found. The victims were Miss Sarah Elizabeth Brownell, 60 a seamstress; and Mrs. Alfred Bennett, 48, wife of an ice-man, and mother of four children.

Janitor is Held
Police were holding, on a homicide charge, Ludwig Lee, 38, janitor of the house, where Miss Brownell lived. He protested his innocence. The police theory was that Miss Brownell was slain for robbery and Mrs. Bennett killed when she chanced to surprise the murderer.

Another mystery cropped in a dark cellar where a plumber came upon two bundles containing the dismembered portions of a man's body. Police believe the victim had been dead several months.

Kept under constant grilling, Lee told how Miss Brownell proposed marriage to him. The proposal occurred May 16, Lee told detectives.

Woman Gave Him Cash
"I said, 'Yes, I'll marry you,'" Lee said he told the aged spinster.

Lee said several months ago Miss Brownell gave him $800 with which he started a restaurant. This venture proved a failure, he said. The last time she gave him money, he said, was on July 4, when she handed him $15. He never saw her after that, he said.

OFFERS WAY TO ACCEPT FIGURE OF U. S. EXPERT

Will Accept Maximum Tonnage if Large Ships are Few

Geneva, Switzerland, July 11—(AP)—What was regarded as a significant change in the British attitude toward the cruiser problem was evident this afternoon when it was announced in authoritative British circles that if Great Britain and the United States could agree to limit the number of 10,000-ton cruisers to about 10, Great Britain would be prepared to accept the American maximum total tonnage of 400,000.

The idea in back of this plan was that if only a small portion of tonnage was expended upon the larger cruisers, Great Britain would have enough tonnage left to maintain the number of small cruisers which she regards as necessary.

W. C. Bridgeman, head of the British delegation, conferred with Hugh Gibson, of the American delegation, this afternoon.

IRELAND MOURNS SLAIN MINISTER OF ITS CABINET

Assassins of Kevin O'Higgins Appear to Have Escaped

Dublin, Ireland, July 11—(AP)—Signs of mourning were everywhere today for Kevin O'Higgins, "strong man" of the Irish Free State, who became a victim of assassins yesterday. He was shot from an automobile as he was walking to mass at Black Rock, near Dublin, and died within a short time, forgiving his enemies.

O'Higgins, usually accompanied by detectives, was alone at his own request, and his three assailants sped away after inflicting half a dozen wounds. No motive was apparent.

When O'Higgins, who was vice president of the Free State council, minister of justice and foreign affairs, fell, he gasped:

"I forgive them all."

Dictated His Will
Before he died, he dictated his will, bequeathing all his possessions to his wife and baby.

Taken home, O'Higgins knew he was dying. He embraced his wife and child and said farewell to friends as co-workers.

The free state cabinet was assembled immediately to decide on the necessary steps in what is looked upon as a serious situation, for the slain official was regarded as a bulwark of the free state cause.

Once Valera Supporter
At one time, O'Higgins was a supporter of Eamon De Valera, republican leader, and was arrested during the disorders before the signing of the treaty creating the free state. When the treaty was promulgated, however, he became an ardent worker for the free state and was made minister of justice in 1922. Shortly afterwards, his father was slain by raiders.

O'Higgins was 31. He had a clearly defined antagonism toward the republicans since the free state was organized and his political speeches were sharp denunciations of the De Valera party. Consequently, he made enemies and was provided with police protection.

Several arrests were reported today, but there was no indication that the actual persons implicated have been found.

Everett Brock, 21, a Kentuckian, was sentenced to serve six months at the state work farm at Vandalia and stand committed until a fine of $100 and costs was paid by Judge William L. Leech in the county court today on a charge of larceny. Brock was arrested last evening about 10 o'clock by Chief of Police J. D. Van Bibber following the complaint that cars were being rifled on West First street.

Howard Cole of Mt. Morris complained to the chief that he had parked his car on First street while he went into a restaurant for a lunch and upon returning, his hat, which he had purchased Saturday evening, was gone and an old hat left in the car. Brock was found a short distance from the restaurant wearing the Mt. Morris man's hat and at the police station, confessed to the theft.

In receiving sentence this morning, Brock was informed by Judge Leech that the pilfering of clothing and merchandise from shoppers and visitors coming to Dixon would be punished by sentences at the state work farm. Brock preferred to go to the county jail, but will be taken to Vandalia tomorrow.

BIRGER'S BEST LAWYER MUST STAY OUTSIDE

Children and Wife to be Forbidden Place Beside Gangster

Benton, Ill., July 11—(AP)—Selection of a jury for the trial of Charles Birger, Art Newman and Ray Hyland, gangsters, for the murder of Mayor Joe Adams, of West City, proceeded today with relatives of the defendants excluded from the enclosure in front of the bench.

Court opened with an announcement by Circuit Judge Charles Miller that everyone but the defendants, counsel, newspaper men and court attaches would be removed from behind the rail.

Put Outside Rail
Mrs. Birger and Birger's two children by a former marriage, were then given seats just outside the rail where they could hear the proceedings.

Heretofore, they have been by the gang leader's side and the children have frequently caressed their father and he has fondled them.

State's Attorney Roy C. Martin is known to have been unfavorable to the presence of Birger's wife and children and one of Birger's lawyers has stated that the children were the gangster's "best lawyers."

Says Room is Needed
Judge Miller explained that the room inside the rail was needed for counsel.

State's Attorney Martin asked John King, the first of fifty veniremen called, whether he would allow any consideration of the wives and children of the defendants to enter into his verdict. King replied "No."

Martin then asked whether fear of the results of a verdict of guilty would influence him and King replied it would not.

Mrs. Adams, widow of the slain mayor of West City, was called from her chair by the state's attorney who went into conference with her and Gus Adams, brother of the mayor. The widow appeared in a large flowing checked hat of black and white. Her gown was of similar keleidoscopic pattern.

It was learned today that state highway patrolmen yesterday searched the spot near Dubois, Washington county, where Patrolman Lory Price's body was found February 5 and dug up several .45 caliber bullets. They believed this indicated Price was killed on the spot, thus substantiating the confession of Newman.

BIGGEST "MOP-UP" IN HISTORY LEE CO CONDUCTED BY SQUADS OF OFFICERS; LIQUOR TAKEN

Sheriff's Force and Police Act on Data Secured by Detectives Imported by State's Attorney Mark C. Keller

The biggest "mop-up" of alleged illicit liquor law violators in the history of Dixon and Lee county since the Volstead act became a law, was carried out in this city and vicinity Saturday afternoon between 2 and 5 o'clock by three squads of deputies and police officers under Sheriff Ward T. Miller and Chief of Police J. D. Van Bibber, the series of raids being the result of the activities of two operators, Harry Baumgartner and Miss Madelyn Dilkey, of the Baumgartner Secret Service Agency, who had been active in Dixon and vicinity for the past two weeks working through the state's attorney's office.

Sixteen Under Arrest.
At 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, three squads started out on the "mop-up" campaign, armed with search warrants in many instances and state warrants in others. Sixteen persons were placed under arrest for violation of the state prohibition laws as the result of the drive. The raiding parties swooped down on the various places serving liquor, consisting largely of home brew, in truck load quantities and taking it to the county jail. Those in charge of the places visited were hurried to the county jail and locked up until the squads had completed their operations and all of the evidence seized under the search warrants had been hauled to the jail and stored away.

The entire east department of the county jail was filled with evidence taken in the raids and deputies worked for several hours in storing stocks of home brew. All of the cell space was utilized in housing the seizures and only the main corridor in the women's department of the county jail was unoccupied today.

List of "Victims."
Those arrested in the drive were: John Gugerty, Charles Lawson, Doris Wedlake, Charles Camery, Elmer Zimmerman, Eph Hess, Mrs. F. M. Logan, Fred Bott, Allison Mocklin, August and George Hasselmann, George Radeau, Mrs. Mary Dubois and Clinton Holderman.

Mrs. Marie Wedlake was ill at her home when the raiding party arrived and was not taken to the county jail at the time. Nelson "Doc" Camery, was arrested in Chicago last night, following a reported hasty flight, and Sheriff Ward Miller left for the city at noon to bring him back. Camery, with his brother, is charged with the sale and possession of intoxicating liquor in the state warrant sworn out by the investigators. He is reported to have boarded a train in Mendota Sunday afternoon for Chicago at the request of Sheriff Miller was taken in custody by detectives when he left the train in Chicago.

Following the raids and arrests, Justice Grover W. Gehant, before whom the state warrants and search warrants were issued, was kept busy for several hours arranging for the release of those taken on bonds. Several of the cases went over to the September term of the grand jury, the principals retaining counsel who waived preliminary hearings and furnished the required bonds.

Searched Some Places.
Armed with search warrants, the squads entered six places within the city and three in the county. Those within the city which were raided were John Gugerty, Marie Wedlake, Charles Camery, Mrs. F. M. Logan, August Hasselmann and Clinton Holderman, who conducts an eating place on Peoria av. The home of Charles Lawson, residing east of the city on the Stony Point road, and against whom a similar charge is now pending.

SAINT and SINNER

After two doctors and a nurse had assured her that she could not see Cherry that night, and that there was no immediate danger, although Cherry was still unconscious, Faith permitted her husband to take her home and put her to bed. She believed that she could not possibly go to sleep, but when Bob awakened her by accidentally dropping a hair brush she found that she had slept nearly six hours.

"Have you heard from the hospital?" she demanded fearfully, her face red with shame that she had been able to sleep while Cherry's life was in danger.

Bob strode to the bed and smiled down upon her, almost gaily. Color had returned to his tanned cheeks and his eyes were bright blue again—not that fearsome slate-gray which had so terrified her the night before. "I telephoned at six—it's eight now—and they told me Cherry was conscious and reacting normally. Plucky little devil! One of her two special nurses answered the phone and said Cherry had begun to issue orders already. Doesn't like the placing of the furniture or the color of the rug, or something. Now smile, honey! Everything's all right!"

Faith closed her eyes over sudden tears, and a shudder of relief relaxed her fear-rigid body. "And—the baby?" she whispered, pressing Bob's hand hard against her cheek.

"Little but loud, they tell me," Bob chuckled. "Probably yelling his head off right now for a sight of its Aunt Faith. We're going over to the hospital—got a nine-thirty appointment with your young niece and your baby sister, but you're going to have a three course breakfast before I let you out of bed, young woman."

She lay relaxed on her pillows, a smile quivering on her lips, her eyes brimming with tears, her heart swelling with love for the whole world while Bob gossiped with Mrs. Lundy in the pretty blue-and-white kitchen, overseeing preparation of her tray.

And later, as he sat on the edge of the bed while she ate hungrily of the delicious breakfast he had brought her, she wondered how she had ever doubted him, had ever felt that he did not truly love her. His eyes and his voice and his hands caressed her, as if he could not get enough of her, could not tell her in enough ways that he loved her.

She found, when she was ready to leave for the hospital with Bob, that Jim Lane had already gone to pay his respects to his first grandchild, and she was glad of the opportunity to be alone a little longer with her husband in his boylike mood. It was a heavenly day in late June, a steady breeze tempering the heat of the sun.

"Oh, it's nice to be married!" Faith spoke suddenly, her breast rising on a wave of exultation. "I love you, Bob!"

"And I love you, beautiful!" he assured her, his hand closing tightly over hers, his blue eyes very soft.

The Proof of the Mel on Is in the Grinning

Hot dawg! Lookie yonder down nex' de cawnfield! Let's go! Wide eyes stare over a moonlit fence. Then comes a cloud. The cloud passes and all is quiet. Then, around a bend in the road, is heard the patter of four feet, and here they are! Hot dawg! Juicy melon!

Four Die in New York Train Tragedy

A comprehensive view of the wreckage, this, showing the express locomotive prow buried nearly cab deep in the rear car of the standing train and the telescoped coaches behind it.

French Non-Stop Hopes Go Up in Smoke

It was in that gentle mood that they arrived at the hospital, to be told by the head nurse pattering swiftly down the corridor on her noiseless rubber heels, that Cherry and her baby were awaiting them. Jim Lane had come, adored, and gone, she told them, and Cherry could see them for ten whole minutes, if they took care not to excite her.

Faith paused in the threshold of her sister's room, trying to realize that beyond that closed door was a new life—Cherry's own baby—which would soon become one of the most important persons in the world, so far as Faith Hathaway was concerned. Even then she felt some premonition of what the child was to mean to her.

TOMORROW: Cherry's baby.

THRILLS TO HELP WEAK APPETITES.

It is becoming painfully apparent that the best tonic the doctors can prescribe to keep life from becoming a drab, bilious, uninteresting companion with a chronic headache and a coated tongue is a serial thrill. People never seem to be getting along as well with themselves, each other, and the wide, wide world as when they have some heroes or arch villains to worry about. This, at least, has been the experience of the world in the past year, for we have gone from one thrill to another with much gusto.

Across the national consciousness have fitted the thrills provided by such hale and hearty beings as Mollie Dunham, who held the center of national interest for weeks with his "Turkey in the Straw" and "Old Zip Coon." Close after him came the inspiring Berlin-Mackay romance. Helon Wills went down fighting after a hectic week or two in the headlines, and Marian Talley came up singing. Browning obliged by marrying "Peaches," and gave the nation something really worth thinking about for a number of weeks. Countess Cathcart and the Earl Carrol bathtub provided their wholesome, invigorating touches and helped appetites immensely.

There was a touch of adventure in the Byrd and Amundsen expeditions, which were so beneficial that many people who had suffered through the winter months were no doubt enabled to get out of bed and prepare to enjoy the summer. The explosion in the naval ammunition dump in New Jersey caused a temporary relapse, but Gertrude Ederle's swimming of the channel, and Valentino's well-timed passing away had desirable health-giving attributes.

The Florida hurricane was an electrical treatment. Queen Marie nursed along jaded nerves, and the Hall-Mills case really did many people a heap of good. This year, of course, we have had Lindbergh and his flying companions for stimulus. It is not at all improbable that the world, under this treatment, will be able to live through the summer.

Treatment of this sort is good for the nerves. It acts as a counter-irritant and makes average men or women forget the numerous aches and pains with which they are so obviously afflicted.

WIDOW FLEEING BECOMES CHRONIC.

In any number of states it is becoming more and more evident that there is need of a law to protect the fortunes of widows. Too smart confidence men, having exhausted the gold brick and the money machine possibilities, have turned to the widow with recently acquired insurance and property left by her husband's will as the most lucrative of sources for easy money.

The routine followed is usually the same. The confidence man calls upon the widow. He represents himself as a banker or broker, and is properly sympathetic. He would like to be of service, he offers the usual sure thing. Her money will be safe—it will be doubled. The trusting widow leans heavily upon the solicitous sympathy. And falls. If necessary, the confidence man will marry his victim to gain control of her fortune. Once that is secured, he vanishes.

It is often known by bankers, attorneys and courthouse officials that women are throwing away their fortunes, but there is no action that they can take. They may caution, they may attempt stronger spade-calling language, but the honeyed words of the confidence man are always, apparently, sweeter to the ear. Until there is state protection, the eternal fleeing or widows is bound to continue.

AVIATION IS GENEVA'S STUMBLING BLOCK.

It was a curious coincidence which put on the front pages of many newspapers one story saying that Japan could not consent to a deduction of its cruiser strength, while not far from it was another story saying that the recent trans-Atlantic flights have made the possibility of American invasion from Europe via the air route something to worry about.

The two dispatches, coming on the same day, predict, in a way, that any value to come from the Geneva conference may not be worth the parchment they are written on, for tomorrow the cruiser of today will in all probability be as obsolete as the Monitor and the Merrimack.

No battleship or cruiser of the future will be worth its smoke unless it is an airplane carrier, and unless the Geneva conference can limit the strength of air navies, all the time and effort taken in planning its sessions will be of but little lasting worth.

Commander Byrd reports he found a lot of fog over Ireland. Was it fog, or smoke?

We've decided that these trans-Atlantic flights were all propaganda for E. D. T.

Now that Ambassador Herrick is home, he probably will have many inquiries about whether or not Lindbergh really did refuse champagne.

A woman asking for a divorce, charges her husband threw the supper at her. What we are wondering is whether or not she caught the can.

We are awaiting the new question that will undoubtedly be the next to go on insurance policies—about the wife's temper.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK

Parading on your hands, 'tis true, is not an easy thing to do, so all the little Tinymites soon got back on their feet. The Princess then said,

"Follow me. You've seen all that there is to see in Upside-Down-Town, and I hope, it's really been a treat."

"You bet it has," the bunch replied.

And shortly they were all outside.

"What can we do now?" Clowney asked.

"I'd like to rest a while," "That suits me, too," the Princess said.

"Why, I'm so tired I'm nearly dead."

The Tinties then flopped on the ground, which made the Princess smile.

It wasn't long till all the band were snoozing deep in slumberland.

They'd picked a dandy, shady place beneath a spreading tree. The Princess also took a nap, and when she woke, right in her lap she found a flippant little elf, as happy as could

Said he, "I hope I'm welcome here."

I like wee tots, so have no fear,

Please wake up all the Tinymites, so I can say 'hello!' The Princess clapped her hands and then the Tinties were awake again. The elf said,

"Howdy do," and then he shouted, "I must go."

They watched his scamper 'cross the lawn. It sure surprised the Tiny-mites. He disappeared so quick. The Princess then said, "Now we'll see how wonderful my wand can be. If you'll just watch me closely I will do a startling trick."

She waved the wand 'round through space. A change came over

Clowney's face. "I surely feel real funny," he exclaimed. "I'm filled with fear." The Princess giggled.

"Don't you fret. I'll make a monkey of you yet." And that's exactly what she did. No wonder he felt queer!

(The Tinymites are caught in a popcorn shower in the next story).

THIS HAS HAPPENED

Attempts have been made on the life of ELISE MARRBERY, an American girl owning considerable property near the little town of PORTO VERDE, in west central Brazil. Several mysterious deaths have occurred, but so far she has escaped harm, due to the shrewdness of her cousin and protector, VILAK, a curious mixture of American and Oriental blood and a student of criminology.

Vilak has been trying to persuade Elise to leave Porto Verde, letting him stay behind with his party is headed by an armed force in a stone tower next to Prentiss' house. Vilak disperses the enemy by dynamiting a dam and causing a real flood. When the water recedes they discover Prentiss is gone.

The next day, TINKY, Elise's two-year-old orphaned nephew, is kidnapped for the second time. A native reports Prentiss has been seen with a baby. The trail leads into the jungle and with native trackers, they pursue a family overruns them. Some of their reliable natives are hurt and two of their white friends are killed. Treachery exists in their ranks.

Finally, Elise and Vilak finally emerge from the jungle and presently come to the outskirts of Porto Verde. Looking at a distance like the ruins of an Inca city. As they approach the town they are overcome by gas, evidently released on them by hidden watchers.

NOW BEGIN THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXIX

When Vilak recovered consciousness he was lying on the floor of a narrow stone-walled room, bare of furniture. As his brain quickly cleared, he attempted to rise. The effort was futile; he was bound hand and foot with heavy leather thongs.

But the movement had caused him to turn his head and he saw that he was not alone in the stony chamber. Nunnally, also trussed up in a similar fashion, lay on his back a few feet away. Elise, however, was not to be seen.

After a glance at the old man, which showed that he was still unconscious, Vilak rolled to one of the narrow slits built in the wall to serve as windows and looked out.

From the rows of adobe and straw huts which he could see stretching out below, he concluded that he was on a corner of the artificial mound he had noticed from the mountain. A stone path ran by his windows. On it he could see no one. But at the base of the mound, fifty or sixty feet below him, ran a broad highway, and this was swarming with life.

Most of the inhabitants were dressed in the same fashion as the wilder Indians near Porto Verde, the men with breech cloths at their waists, and a rounded stick or stone in their cars, the women naked or with a short cloth apron.

Though at the distance it was rather difficult even for Vilak's keen eyes to make out the exact color of their skins, they seemed to range in shade from the red-brown of the American aborigines to the shining black of the negro laborers on Elise's fazenda. Only one stood out by the brilliancy and picturesqueness of his costume. He was obviously a priest, for the swarming women and children made haste to clear a way for him when they passed. Round his otherwise unclothed body he wore a girdle of brilliantly dyed cloth; on his head was a circle of green parrot feathers.

A slight murmur from the direction where the old man was lying caused Vilak to turn his head quickly. Nunnally had awakened.

"Well, they've caught us all right," Vilak grunted, when the other's bewilderment at his new surroundings had ceased. "One of your nice sulphur compounds did us. Considerate of them not to let us lie there until we strangled to death, at least. Wonder how long they're going to keep us waiting here? And what the devil have they done with Elise?"

The bonneted end of a spear was momentarily framed in the window aperture, then disappeared. Vilak looked outside again. "That's our sentry," he muttered. "Kinky-haired and almost pitch-black. Match him anywhere in the Sudan or Congo, or Alabama or Mississippi for that matter. These are Inca ruins that we're in, all right, but the people occupying them are as far from Incas as anything I've encountered. Probably found these old buildings and began living in them, that's all."

"Judging by those I've seen so far, they're as much of a mixture as the natives around Porto Verde, varying degrees of negro and Indian and possibly a little Spanish or Portuguese thrown in. I'm generally strongly in favor of racial mixtures, but this looks like a bad one. Many bad, rather degenerate faces."

The spear-end was framed in the window again. The old man crawled forward to look. "He is . . . black . . . quite black."

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"SACRAMENT" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, July 10.

The Golden Text was from Matthew 16:24, "Then said Jesus unto his disciples, If any man will come after me, let him deny himself and take up his cross, and follow me."

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Purge out therefore the old leaven, that ye may be a new lump, as ye are unleavened. For even Christ our passover is sacrificed for us: Therefore let us keep the feast, not with old leaven, neither with the leaven of malice and wickedness; but with the unleavened bread of sincerity and truth" (I Cor. 5:7, 8).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "What we most need is the prayer of fervent desire for growth in grace, expressed in patience, meekness, love, and good deeds. To keep the commandments of our Master and follow his example, is our proper debt to him and the only worthy evidence of our gratitude for all that he has done" (p. 4).

BROTHERS

Port Huron, Mich.—On the train bound from Port Huron to Marquette Prison recently were two brothers. One was Thomas Snay who pleaded guilty to involuntary homicide; the other was his brother, Deputy Sheriff Fred Snay, taking him to serve a three-to-five-year term. The case was the outgrowth of an automobile crash in which Miss Virginia Hickson, 16-year-old school girl was killed.

DREW I-CENT FINE

Dallas, Tex.—Arrested on a charge of possessing liquor, O. T. Lindley, farmer, spent 30 days in jail before his case was called. Thinking he had been punished enough, the judge fined him 1 cent. Lindley didn't have the money. Jail boomed again. Finally an attorney in the court room paid the fine.

Isn't he?" he stammered. "How do negroes come so far out here? The black race isn't . . . or . . . native to South America."

"Of course it isn't native. But that hasn't prevented it from spreading all over the continent, just as it has in the southern states. The ancestors of these chaps were undoubtedly African slaves Pizarro brought over to work the Inca gold mines and who ran away to the mountains to escape his terrible cruelty. Judging by the ornaments I've seen a few of them wearing, they probably think they're the pure and direct descendants of the original Incas. Easy to get that idea when they're living in Inca ruins all the time. Many far brighter races do it. The Slavs, for instance, have a large portion of the present population of Greece, will swear to you that they're the undiluted progeny of the great Athenians."

He ceased speaking as a step sounded outside the door of grotesquely carved wood at the other end of the narrow room. A wooden bar creaked, the door opened and a man strode inside. Small, well-built, he was clad in immaculate white linens and brown puttees. His skin was dark, but it was the darkness that comes to a white skin after long exposure to the tropical sun; his nose was long and thin, his mouth sensitive and small. On his upper lip was a small, carefully trimmed mustache. He gazed at the prisoners smilingly.

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS CUBS CONTINUE TO CEMENT HOLD ON FIRST PLACE

Take Brooklyn Sunday for Ninth Time of Current Season

(By the Associated Press.)
Another reason why the Chicago Cubs are leading the National league has been added. Eddie Pick, recently acquired from Kansas City, broke up a pitchers' battle in Brooklyn yesterday with a home run.
The Cubs, who won 1 to 0, have taken every game with Brooklyn this season.
Pittsburgh was idle, so Chicago's margin in first place is now a full game.
Virgil Barnes led the Cardinals down with one hit in the first game of a doubleheader, the Giants winning, 5 to 0. St. Louis the next, 7 to 3 behind McGraw's effective twirling.

Homer Kings Balked.
The Gehring-Ruth homerun Marathon was interrupted in Detroit by Whitehill, who gave the Tigers a 6 to 3 victory over the Yanks. Whitehill fanned Ruth twice and held him hitless. Gehrig got only one hit.
Washington made it five straight from Cleveland by winning by 10 to 9 in seven innings when rain interfered.
The Athletics pounded three St. Louis pitchers, and won a slug fest, 14-11.
Boston lapsed into an old stride at Chicago and Ray Schalk's team beat them, 4 to 1.

Dixon Man's Bass Like Unto Mud Cat

Rumor has it that a prominent business man of Dixon went fishing in Franklin creek, for several hours Sunday. He pulled out six or seven fine bass. The largest one weighed four pounds, and while he was showing them to several companions, the fish wiggled his tail, gave a jump and landed in one of the arms of the creek. This part of the creek was pretty muddy. The business man for a moment, jumped around in circles acting very much like a baby with the colic, crying out, "I must not lose that fish." He, in a moment of great excitement, divested himself of all clothing but his B. V. D's, and jumped into the slough and after a few minutes of feeling about in the mud and water, pulled out his lost bass. He was a pretty looking sight when he came forth with his prize, but he declares it was worth it.

Callahan's Title May be At Stake Tomorrow

Chicago, July 11. (AP)—Mush Callahan may be compelled to defend his junior welterweight title against Sammy Baker, of New York, tomorrow at the Cubs. Both men are to enter the ring for their 10-round scrap weighing "less than 145 lbs." which is five pounds over the junior welterweight limit. Callahan probably will weigh in slightly under 145. Baker, however, was within a pound of the limit today. Thus, Baker has a chance to grab the crown by making the proper weight.

COMPARES LIFE OF CHRISTIANS TO LINDBERGH'S

Reverend Suechting Gave Unique Discourse Sunday Evening

In a special confirmation and baptismal service conducted at the Immanuel Lutheran church Sunday evening five adults were received into the communicant membership of the congregation. The choir rendered an appropriate anthem and the pastor delivered a confirmation address on the theme: "Life a Journey Heavenward."
In comparing the daring feat of the discovery 435 years ago, with the epoch-making event of Captain Charles Lindbergh's trans-Atlantic flight, Pastor Suechting pointed out a few lessons that might be learned by the Christians of today.
"The Christian must live his life alone. Like the aviator he too, travels an unknown road, not knowing what tomorrow has in store, and the Christian's destiny is neither India nor Paris nor Berlin, but the New Jerusalem, as heaven is termed in Scriptures. In combating the adverse traveling conditions, under currents of sin and hatred, eddies and air pockets of temptations and storms of opposition, the Christian has a reliable and dependable compass in the Word of God which gives him unfailingly the directions. The motive power is furnished by the Spirit of God in full abundance through the means of grace, the Word of God and the Holy Sacrament. And at the conclusion of the journey at life's end the Christian will not be received by crowned heads of perishable kingdoms but by the King of Kings and instead of medals pinned to his coat, lapel he will receive the crown of eternal life.

Thus Pastor Suechting held up the daring aviator and his success to the class as an example for life's journey. Those who were accepted into the church membership Sunday night were: Wm. Lindblom and Mrs. A. Grams by baptism; Mrs. F. Siefkin, Mrs. Wm. Siebers and Mrs. Ort gleson by confirmation.

Landmarks of the Air

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is contributing to American flying in very practical ways. One outstanding contribution is an immense program of marking air trails by guide marks painted on the roofs of its warehouses.

When the need arises, with the expansion of commercial aviation, these may be illuminated as guides for night flying.

The Air Mail has conclusively disposed of any misgivings about night flying. It has shown that not only is it practical and safe to fly at night when the right facilities are provided, but that there are atmospheric and other advantages in night flying.

It seems particularly appropriate that the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) should provide these landmarks of the air.

For years the signs of this Company have been familiar landmarks on all the highways and the byways of the ten great Middle Western States, and now this service is being extended to the air.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has developed gasoline and motor oil to meet the requirements of every type of automobile and has distributed these products where they could be obtained conveniently throughout the Middle West.

Extending its service to meet the needs of transportation in the air, the technical division of this Company has developed special gasolines and lubricating oils for airplanes. It is now supplying a large part of the gasoline and oil for aviation.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has pointed the way to motorists—furnishing free maps of the ten states—charting places of interest and beauty, publishing information about them, and giving their exact locations on motor highways.

To point the way to aviators, by means of airway designation on the roofs of its warehouses, is but an expansion of this service. In the air, as well as on the land, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) will act as a friendly guide.

This Company is always found in the front rank of progress. In the early days it went ahead with the pioneers and helped to chart the uncharted prairies of the Middle West.

Today this organization is going ahead with the pioneers of the air, helping to chart the uncharted skies.

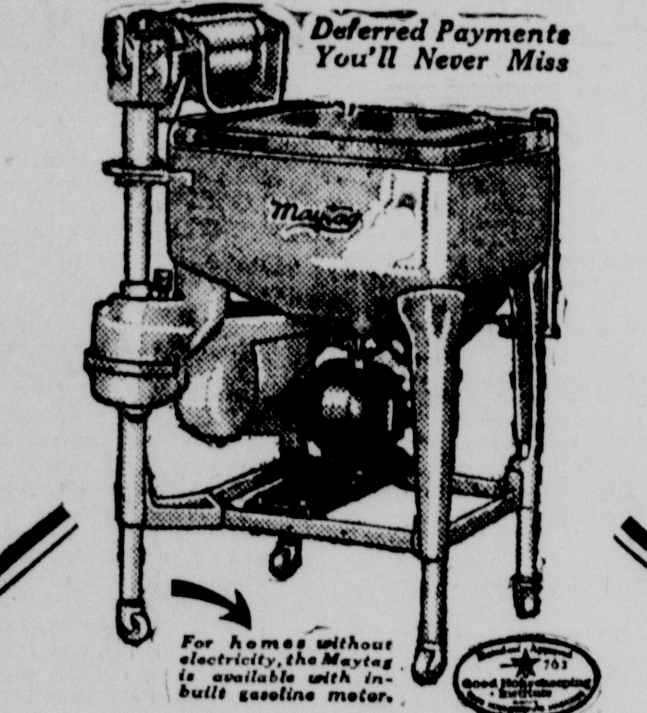

With the expansion of knowledge and scientific skill, the service of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is being expanded.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is contributing to American flying, having demonstrated its practical advantages in its own organization, because the management of this Company believes that commercial aviation is important to the welfare and prosperity of the thirty million people whom it serves.

Maytag dealers everywhere follow the standardized rule of sending a Maytag to a home to do a week's washing free, and without obligation of any kind. This is the way all Maytag Gyrofoam Washers are sold.

"Some tobacco.... but I'll bet it's expensive"

GIVE any man a pipeful of Granger without telling him its price... let him judge it solely on taste and every time he'll say, "It must be expensive."

True enough, it is costly tobacco made by costly processes... and if packed in the ordinary pocket tin it would be expensive... BUT sensibly packed in foil it sells for just ten cents

GRANGER ROUGH CUT

The half-pound vacuum tin is forty-five cents. The foil-pouch, sealed in glassine, is ten cents.

GRANGER ROUGH CUT IS MADE BY THE LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.
